JEROME FACING HARD PROBLEM.

Cannot Disprove Any Statement Mrs. Thaw Made.

Delmas to Attempt to Introduce Will in Evidence.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The nature of District Attorney Jerome's cross examination of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who has already spent two days on the witness stand in the defense of her husband, was the principal subject of discussion when court adjourned late yesterday until Monday morning. Mrs. Thaw's direct examination has continued almost without interruption for two days, and there is as yet no sign of the climax—the moment when the attorneys for the defense will turn her over to the district attorney for cross-examination.

The district attorney has a difficult problem to face in this cross-examination. With the truth or falsity of the stories the witness has testified she told her husband, he has nothing to do The statement that she told him these things Mr. Jerome cannot possibly disprove. His strongest chance in cross-examination is to make her stumble in the story as she has told it, with the gentle guidance of her husband's attorneys, or compel her to admit telling him other things about her past life which would tend to minimize in his mind the effect of the story of her relations with Stanford White. He can introduce evidence, if he has it, generally affecting her credibility as a witness, but as for the main statements in her testimony—the stories which made her recital perhaps the most shocking ever heard in a court in this city—Stanford White himself if he were alive could not go on the witness stand and deny them. The point in the case is not as to the truth of these stories, but as to their effect on Thaw's mind.

This fact was impressed on the jury yesterday, when the court, at the request of the district attorney, informed the jury that under the law the prosecution could not introduce evidence with the object of disproving any statement that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has made, except the statement that she told her husband all the things she has testified to.

Mr. Jerome will strenuously object to the further introduction of what he termed "tattlings of the tenderloin," as was plainly shown late yesterday, when he clubbed, and was sustained by the court, that as yet there had been no evidence to show that Thaw is now, or ever was, insane, and that until this was shown any more of these stories would be entirely immaterial. This ruling by the court may bar any other stories that Evelyn Thaw may have to tell until such time as it has been shown that there is a reasonable doubt as to the proper balance of Thaw's mind at the time of the shooting.

If this is done then the flood gates are likely to open for the admission of almost anything that Thaw may have told his wife or she told him, or that be heard in any other way, that to any extent might have contributed to the unbalancing of his mind. Several attempts were made yesterday to show that Thaw was of unsound mind, but the district attorney was successful in blocking them for the time being.

Thaw's attorneys stated last night that Mrs. Thaw would again assume the stand Monday morning on direct examination.

It is expected that Delphin M. Delmas of counsel for Harry K. Thaw will make a vigorous effort Monday to introduce Thaw's will in evidence. It is said to be a remarkable document, and is believed to be strongly relied upon by Mr. Delmas to show the effect upon Thaw of the stories related to him by Evelyn Neshit. It is said to have been written on loose sheets of paper, partly typewritten and partly in handwriting, with many interlineations.

According to a report today the will is expected to show that Thaw feared assassination, and it is stated that in it he ordered that the sum of $50,000 be devoted to the prosecution of his assassin, or the instigator of his anticipated assassination.

Another extraordinary feature of the will is reported to be a provision setting aside a fund of $75,000 for the care of the women whom he believed to have suffered through Stanford White. The names of the women whom Thaw believed to have suffered are reported to be given in the will. It is also reported that the will contains a provision for the education of Howard Nesbit, Mrs. Thaw's brother, and that an allowance was made for the care of Evelyn's mother during her life. The income from the remainder of the estate was bequeathed to Mrs. Evelyn Thaw.

The Thaw will was dated April 4, 1905. Counsel for Thaw today not only declined to make public the text of the will, but declared the alleged provisions of it made public were inaccurate.

Some of the jurors are beginning to chafe under the close restraint. They are denied practically every liberty and are permitted to leave the hotel for exercise only when all 12 wish to go. Then they are taken out under close guard. Today about half the 12 men wanted to take a walk during the forenoon. The others preferred to lounge around their suite in the hotel. Much argument brought no result, and then the men who wanted to go out appealed to the officer in charge. He told them that he was powerless and could not permit the men to leave the hotel unless all of them went.

Evelyn Thaw visited her husband in the Tombs today for the first time since she began testifying. She was accompanied by A. R. Peabody and John B. Gleason of Thaw's counsel. The four had a long conference. Mrs. Thaw appeared to be in high spirits today, and her husband also seemed to be in a better mood. He would not discuss the progress of his trial, however.

The report was published here today that a large fund has been collected to clear Stanford White's reputation of the injury inflicted by the story of Mrs. Evelyn Thaw. It was reported that lawyers had been engaged to go over Mrs. Thaw's testimony and to submit suggestions to assure victory in [illegible]

REASON FOR REFUSING OFFER.

Policy of New Haven Road to Give Strength to Its Land Lines.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 9.—It is understood here that the action of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad directors in declining the offer of Charles W. Morse to purchase the New England Navigation Company's property was due to the set and traditional policy of the company to give sustaining support and strength to its land lines in territorial development. The directors also felt, it is understood, that while there is a possibility of Congressional action looking to the separation of water and land lines under joint operation, there was no serious menace to the continued operation by the New Haven company of its Navigation Company's property.

Another factor in the decision, it is stated was the feeling among the directors that if the transfer had been made it would have been exceedingly difficult to have entered into an arrangement which would have ensured the New Haven system against serious competition in the immediate future.

The offer of Mr. Morse was $400 a share or $20,000,000, which figure is just four times what was offered for the Navigation Company's property three years ago.

It is a coincidence that three months ago the New Haven directors declined to entertain an offer made to President Mellen for the purchase of the Consolidated Railway Company for $20,000,000, which was twice the cost of the electric properties of the New Haven road.

HONDURAS FOR PEACE.

Accepts Advice of Government but Nicaragua Still Holds Out

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Costa Rica and Salvador have joined their efforts to those of the United States and Mexico to prevent a war in Central America, as the result of the present friction between Honduras and Nicaragua. Senor Calvo, the minister to Washington from Costa Rica, today assured State Department officials that his government, after communicating with that of Salvador, had undertaken to intervene to the extent of making representations to the opposing governments, calculated to induce them to refrain from hostilities.

Each side feels that in view of the bloodshed that has taken place on the borders only war can satisfy the demands of honor. It is the purpose of the four governments acting as peacemakers to convince the would-be belligerents that their honor would not be aspersed by submitting their differences to peaceful adjudication. Honduras has accepted this view and it now remains only for Nicaragua to yield to this influence.

Mr. Jacobs said he represented the manufacturing and commercial interests of San Francisco, and that all the commercial organizations were a unit in opposing the stand taken by the board of education as to separate schooling of Japanese pupils.

FROM DECREE OF DIVORCE.

Count Boni de Castellane Appeals From Court's Decision.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The rumor that Count Boni de Castellane had appealed from the decision of the court last November granting a divorce to his wife, who was Miss Anna Gould, is confirmed. The period under the French procedure in which such an appeal entered in behalf of the court prevents the decree from becoming definite on that date has not elapsed, thereby keeping alive Count Boni's hope of reaching an agreement until the appeal is finally decided. The notice does not state the grounds of the appeal, and probably several months will elapse before the matter comes up before the court.

DUTIES ON SHOES DOUBLED.

Bill Before French Parliament to Stimulate Home Manufacturers.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The Parliamentary commission which investigated the long lock-out in the shoe industry of the Fougere region, which ended yesterday, has recommended the introduction in Parliament of a bill doubling practically the duties on shoes, etc., so as to stimulate the home manufacturers who have suffered from the foreign invasion of footgear, especially American products. The commission proposed raising the rates on boots to a maximum of $1.20 and a minumum of 60 cents, on shoes 80 cents to 40, and slipers 60 cents to 30, and also imposing a duty of $48 to $24 per hundred kilos (220 pounds) on children's shoes, heretofore free.

As the bill represents the joint conclusions of the employers and employes it is regarded as certain that it will be adopted.

AT MOSCOW UNIVERSITY.

Headquarters of Flying Group of Terrorists Located.

MOSCOW, Feb. 9.—The headquarters of the Flying Group of terrorists, whence agents were sent out to execute the death sentences imposed on General Count Ignatiff, a member of the council of the empire; Lieutenant General Pavloff, procurator general; Major General Von Der Launitz, prefect of police at St. Petersburg, and S. A. Alexandrovsky, governor of Penza, has been located at the Moscow female university. The police searched the university buildings and many near-by tenements and arrested eight girl students and a number of men, but the leaders have thus far escaped. A number of bombs and 80 pounds of pyroxyly were seized at the university.

IN FAVOR OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Thousands March hrough Muddy Streets of London.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Titled women, clad in silk and velvet, women with university degrees, graduates in caps and gowns, women artists, members of the lyceum and other woman's clubs, temperance advocates and women textile workers gathered from all parts of the country this afternoon, and marched in the rain through the muddy streets in support of the movement in favor of woman suffrage. The demonstrators included such well known persons as Lady Francis Balfour, sister of the ex-premier; Lady Maude Perry and other titled women; Mrs. Fawcett, widow of the ex-postmaster general and most of the leaders of the more important suffrage societies, who are utterly opposed to the militant methods of the so-called "suffragettes," who recently were carried out of the House of Commons by policemen and committed to prison for disturbing the peace. There were several thousand women in the procession, which was half a mile long.

BOW PLATES TORN OPEN.

Steamer Menominee Badly Damaged in Collision With French Vessel.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Feb. 9.—Atlantic transport line steamer Menominee, from Antwerp yesterday for Philadelphia, put in here this afternoon, badly damaged, as the result of the collision off Beachy Head during the night with French coasting steamer President Leroy Lallier. The plates of the Menominee's starboard bow were torn open to the water's edge, bales from her cargo emerging from the opening.

The first officer of the Menominee noticed what he supposed to be a sailing vessel steering erratically, with her lights badly screened. Then the President Leroy Lallier crashed into the Menominee, tearing a big hole in her bow. The water filled her forward compartment, but the bulkheads held, and it did not reach the other parts of the ship. The sea was smooth and there was no panic on board the Menominee, which launched a boat and sent her to the assistance of the French steamer, which had backed off immediately after the collision. The French vessel was considerably damaged, but her commander decided to proceed to his port of destination, Dunkirk.

Eleven first-class passengers and 18 cattlemen who were on their way to the United States on the Menominee were transferred off the Isle of Wight to American line steamer St. Louis, which left Southampton today for New York.

MRS. THAW AROUSES JEROME.

District Attorney Protests Against the Defamation of the Dead.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, pale and trembling, but with a manner which betokened quiet but firm determination to bear up bravely under her crushing ordeal to the end, today, in a crowded court room, which hung at times almost breathlessly upon her words, resumed the narrative of her life. The period she covered brought the story down to her marriage in Pittsburg April 4, 1905, and her return to New York after a wedding trip to the West.

Dark as the shadows were which frequently forced themselves into the picture, the strain upon her was far less than it was the day before. At times the counsel of her husband called upon her to repeat the miserable details of her earlier acquaintance with her husband's victim, and a feeling akin to horror would momentarily seize upon the listeners, but these intervals were not continued to the length they were when the story was told for the first time.

District Attorney Jerome thrilled the spectators by a passionate and unexpected outbreak, which for the time being diverted attention from the trembling young woman upon the stand and turned the thoughts of every one to the man whom Thaw shot down, as the state contends, in cold blood. The district attorney protested in a voice in which loathing, derision and sarcasm seemed to be struggling for mastery against "defamation of the dead in the tattle of the Tenderloin." The reaction was marked and the effect was electrical.

Mrs. Thaw was still on the stand, with her direct examination unfinished, when the usual week-end adjournment until Monday morning was taken. This state of affairs is one which is highly pleasing to the lawyers for the defense, as they have several times expressed a hope that Mrs. Thaw would have the advantage of the recess in which to recover her strength and composure before submitting to the strain of the merciless cross-examination to which she is certain to be subjected by District Attorney Jerome.

While today's testimony was lacking in the vital personal quality which made yesterday's recital so dramatic, so impelling, enthralling and pathetic, it served to clear away some of the doubts and inferences which remained from the incomplete details as to the full extent of the revelations she claims to have made to her husband. There were repetitions, too, at the suggestion of counsel, and incidents which had not been gone over in the first years of Mrs. Thaw's acquaintance with Stanford White were brought out in completion of the life story.

District Attorney Jerome, who had throughout the recital silently listened to the young wife's statements, sent a thrill of excitement through the court room by jumping to his feet and vigorously protesting against "this defamation of the dead."

"Is there no limit," he exclaimed, "to the aspersions that are to be cast upon this man? Your Honor knows I or this man? Your Honor knows I cannot, under the law, controvert any statement this witness might make against the memory of Stanford White."

In tones bitterly sarcastic, Mr. Jerome spoke of "this tattle of the Tenderloin," and declared that the court had the right to limit such testimony until competent evidence has been adduced here to show that this man is, or was, of unsound mind. We don't know whether this defendant even was insane," he concluded.

The question which called out the vehement protest from the District Attorney was addressed to Mrs. Thaw by Mr. Delmas, and its purport was whether or not Harry Thaw had at any time told her about "other girls who had met a fate similar to you at the hands of this man."

"What man?" snapped Mr. Jerome.

"Stanford White," replied Mr. Delmas, with the calmness of voice and manner characteristic of him, and then he added still in the same low tone, "Who else?"

Justice Fitzgerald held that the district attorney's suggestion was a good one, and he thought the defense should lay broader foundation to show insanity before proceeding along the line suggested by Mr. Delmas's question.

"We will proceed to do so as soon as possible," announced the attorney.

Mrs. Thaw declared today that Stanford White, during the year which followed her experience in the room of the patterned walls, repeatedly sought to have her visit him alone

THAW'S PARIS ESCAPADES.

Women Testify to Episodes of Prisoner's Visit to French Capital.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The newspapers of Paris are devoting much space to the proceedings of the Thaw trial in New York, and as a result a number of persons are coming forward anxious to testify to Thaw's alleged escapades in Paris, which, they declare, can only be explained on the ground that he was insane.

A woman from whom Thaw rented an apartment in this city has visited Consul General Mason and recounted numerous episodes of Thaw's stay. Another woman, who says she is an American, has informed the newspapers that she figured in the "bath tub incident," to which reference was made in Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's testimony yesterday. This woman makes further allegations of maltreatment at the hands of Thaw and declares that he gave her $2,000 to compensate her for the injuries she sustained.

VALUABLE PAINTINGS BURNED.

Wanamaker's Country Home Destroyed With Loss of $1,500,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8.—Lindhurst, the handsome country home of former Postmaster General John Wanamaker at Chelton Hills, near Jenkintown, was destroyed by fire tonight, entailing a loss estimated at $1,500,000.

Mr. Wanamaker's home was considered one of the most artistic and valuable of Philadelphia suburban properties. The estate consists of 30 acres of ground, and the house, which in the main was of English style of architecture, stood on a hill about 350 yards back from the famous old York road. The Wanamaker art gallery contained some of the rarest prints and most valuable paintings in existence. Mr. Wanamaker and his family have been at their winter home in this city and the country place was in charge of a caretaker.

The fire made rapid progress, a few valuable paintings being about the only things saved. Among these were "Christ Before Pilate" and "Christ on Calvary," by Munkacsy. These two paintings are valued at $250,000. The suburban police and fire companies from Jenkintown, Ogontz, Ashbourne and Glenside were called into service, but the water service was inadequate and their efforts availed little. The loss is covered by insurance.

Though no statement has been secured from Mr. Wanamaker as to the loss, it is authoritatively stated that it will reach at least $1,500,000. The house cost $1,000,000 and it contained a collection of furniture, bric-a-brac, tapestry and paintings which Mr. and Mrs. Wanamaker have been 40 years in collecting. Mrs. Wanamaker has been collecting Venetian glass for many years, and her collection was regarded as one of the finest extant. The furniture was the most serious loss. There were 50 rooms in the house, and each room was furnished in distinctive style of some period in the world's history. Many of the furnishings were collected from the homes of royalty and cannot be replaced at any cost.

In the collection of paintings were portraits of Mrs. Wanamaker and her daughters, Mrs. Norman McLeod and Mrs. Barclay Warburton. The portrait of Mrs. McLeod was painted by Munkacsy when he visited this country. In the galleries were several Van Dykes, Reinolds, Lawrences and Rigauds. The collection of tapestries was almost as valuable as the paintings.

ROOSEVELT ACTS PROMPTLY.

Appeals, with President Diaz, to Central American Presidents.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8.—At the instance of the President of the United States the President of the Republic of Mexico has sent to the presidents of Guatemala, Salvador and Costa Rica a request that they use their united influences with the governments of Honduras and Nicaragua to induce them to suspend all preparations for war and give full freedom to the board of arbitration, which is now in session in Salvador with the object of deciding the difficulties between Honduras and Nicaragua.

The board of arbitration has convened in conformity with the treaty of Corinto of 1902, and now has under consideration the invasion of Nicaragua by Honduran soldiers. The prompt action of the Presidents of the United States and Mexico working with the Central American government, it is expected, will avert a war, which if it should occur, would probably involve practically all of the Central American governments.

No official advices were received today as to whether or not the governments of Honduras and Nicaragua have taken any steps to comply with the request that they suspend preparations for war, but in diplomatic circles here it is thought that both governments will comply with this request, and that the board of arbitration now meeting in Salvador will be left free and untrammeled in settling the dispute.

If affairs are in status quo it is stated then an amicable agreement can, no doubt, be reached, but should actual war break out before the board of arbitration could consider fully the dispute the new issues that would spring up would render the board's task most difficult.

For this reason the prompt action taken by the American and Mexican governments is considered in diplomatic circles to be most opportune and of great importance.

MABELLE GILMAN, WHO CAPTIVATED A STEEL KING.

Miss Mabelle Gilman, who, according to report, is to marry William Ellis Corey, head of the United States Steel corporation, was on the stage for several years in light opera and musical comedy parts. Miss Gilman's birdlike voice and her beauty of face and figure, combined with her vivacity, made her a reigning favorite. It was in a dainty little piece called "The Mocking Bird" that she made her greatest hit both in New York and London.

OVER 6,500,000,000 POUNDS.

Amount of Sugar Consumed in the United States in 1906.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—"The average citizen of the United States seems to have consumed one half his own weight in sugar in the year just ended," says a statement issued today by the bureau of statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor. The average per capita consumption was 76 pounds. The amount of sugar consumed was 6,500,000,000 pounds, at a cost of over $300,000,000. Of this enormous consumption, one fifth was produced in this country, and a fifth was imported from the island possessions and the remaining three fifths, or 3,884,665,661 pounds, from foreign countries.

TO REFORM HOUSE OF LORDS.

Crown and People to Combine to Defeat the Aristocracy.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The attorney general, Sir John L. Walton, who presumably spoke with the full knowledge of the intentions of the government, made an important declaration in a speech at Leeds last night, foreshadowing the government program for a reform of the House of Lords. He said that the "grim and serious work" upon which the Liberals were entering "would mean a revolution and involve two or three dissolutions." He added that the House of Lords is entirely "out of harmony with modern democratic institutions and must go. The government would endeavor to give effect to the will of the people by bills, which the peers would probably throw out, leading to a combination of the crown and people to defeat the aristocracy."

Attorney General Walton recognized that the struggle would be prolonged and exciting, and would mean a complete re-arrangement of the constitutional and political forces.

NEW HAVEN DECLINES OFFER.

No Fault Found With Liberality of Morse's Figures.

But Board of Directors Decides That Lines Are Not for Sale at Any Price.

Charles W. Morse's offer of $20,000,000 for the New York, New Haven & Hartford steamship lines was declined by the New Haven directors yesterday. The action of the board was unanimous. No discourtesy was implied in the refusal, one of the directors said, nor was there complaint because Mr. Morse's offer was not sufficiently liberal.

"On the other hand," this director added, "Mr. Morse offered more than most of the directors consider the lines worth. The company would be quite willing to sell to Mr. Morse at the figure named if it were willing to sell to anyone at any price. As a matter of fact, the directors decided that the lines are not for sale, no matter what the offer. It has long been the policy of the company to acquire the steamship lines connecting with its rail lines in New England, and these are considered an integral part of the property in the same way that the trolley lines acquired in the last few years and the steam lines are so considered. The New Haven would part with portions of its steam railroads as readily as with its steamship properties. The latter are considered essential to the symmetrical development of the system."

President James McCrea of the Pennsylvania, it was learned, was opposed to the acceptance of the offer, for the obvious reason that the Pennsylvania now secures a large traffic from the steamship lines. But it was not his opposition alone which brought about the refusal of the offer. President Mellen and other influential directors were quite as vigorously opposed to the reversal of policy that would have been involved in acceptance of the offer.

The action of the board indicates that the New Haven intends to compete actively with Mr. Morse in the New York-Boston all-water traffic. The company is assisting in various ways in the Cape Cod canal project and proposes to put in the New York-Boston business larger and faster ships than the Yale and Harvard, now nearing completion for Mr. Morse. It is reported also that the New Haven may put on a fleet of Hudson river steamers to compete with Mr. Morse's People's Line and Citizens' Line. This matter, however, has not yet been discussed by the directors.

Mr. Morse, it is learned, has in the course of organization a syndicate to underwrite an entirely new company which will take over his present properties and such other lines as he may acquire. He has practically decided to abandon the Consolidated Steamship Company, incorporated in Maine recently. If the New Haven deal had gone through the New Haven's lines would have been turned over to the new company and not to the Consolidated.

How far the failure of the New Haven negotiations will affect the remainder of Mr. Morse's plans is not known, but it leaked out that these were much more comprehensive than had previously been believed. Mr. Morse, in fact, aimed at the consolidation not only of all the coast lines, but of the lines running to Porto Rico and Cuba.

THE LATE ADMIRAL KAUTZ.

American Naval Officer Who Effected the First Exchange of Prisoners in Civil War Dies at Florence.

Few officers in the service had a better record for brilliant achievements than the late Admiral Albert Kautz. He was a modest and somewhat conservative man, and for this reason his many acts in the line of heroic duty and exceptional service have not attained that public prominence which their brilliancy deserves.

He had seen 40 years' service in Uncle Sam's navy, during which time he was connected with many vessels, traveled extensively in the Old World, and performed heroic work throughout the Civil war.

He it was who made the negotiations for and consummated the first exchange of prisoners of war of the Rebellion. It was done while he was attached to the North Atlantic blockading squadron in 1861. He was serving aboard United States ship Flag as lieutenant, when orders came placing him in command of prize brig Hannah Balch, captured off Charleston, S. C., with instructions to proceed to Philadelphia. On the twenty-fifth of June he was overtaken and captured by privateer Winslow, and was said to be the first prisoner taken in the war.

He was placed on parole in North Carolina for two months, at the end of which time his parole was taken away and he was incarcerated in Henrico county jail, Richmond, Va., by order of Jefferson Davis, as a retaliatory measure consequent on the imprisonment of privateers in the Tombs in New York city. On the last of October, 1861, he was released on parole for the purpose of going to Washington to procure an exchange. Before starting he had an interview with Confederate Secretaries Benjamin and Mallory at Richmond, and on reaching Washington he saw President Lincoln and Secretaries Seward and Welles.

He succeeded in negotiating an exchange by means of which Admiral Worden, Lieutenant George L. Seldon and himself were released from prison and restored to duty on condition that Lieutenants Stevens, Lovell and Butt be sent South under a flag of truce. There were also 350 prisoners captured at Hatteras Inlet in August, 1861, sent South under the same negotiation, for which the Confederates returned to the North 350 men captured at Bull Run in July, 1861. This was the first exchange authorized by President Lincoln and his cabinet, and it was done through the instrumentality of Lieutenant Kautz.

The circumstances were peculiar. President Davis had announced that he had three prisoners whom he was going to hang unless they were exchanged. Exchange of prisoners might be equivalent in international law to recognition of the Confederacy as a belligerent power, and Secretary Seward was vehemently opposed to it. It was a delicate question, and is still discussed by experts. But President Lincoln, by a characteristic phrase, won over Seward. He said: "Well, the confederates have three men that we want and they don't want, and we have three men they want and we don't. Why not swap?"

In January, 1862, Admiral Farragut, who had become aware of Kautz's good work, in the exchanging of the prisoners, had him assigned to the United States flagship Hartford and appointed him flag officer on his staff.

It was his misfortune that Farragut never quite talked to the rigging in the capture of Mobile, and these guns are now kept by the Kautz family. He was put in command of the gunboats during the attack on Fort Jackson and St. Philip, the Chalmette batteries and the capture of New Orleans in April, 1862.

He had charge of the howitzers under Captain Henry Hall at New Orleans, and in person hauled down the lone star flag from the city hall, which Mayor Munroe refused to strike, and hoisted the Stars and Stripes on the custom house, during which performances of duty he was savagely assailed by bowling mobs.

During a conference with the mayor he was hit with stones and other missiles, around which were wrapped pieces of the Stars and Stripes that had been hauled down from the United States mint by Mumford. The crowd were watching the proceedings through an open window. Later he turned over the keys of the custom house to General Butler.

PERSONALS.

....Benjamin Stephens, a lawyer, who died in New York the other day, left more than $125,000 to charitable purposes.

....Mr. P. W. F. Herwig, the New Orleans millionaire who died a few days ago, left more than a million dollars to his friend, Martin H. Sullivan, the wealthy lumber man of Pensacola, Fla.

....The will of Alfred M. Livingston, who recently shot himself, disposes of an estate valued at $400,000, most of which goes to cousins of Mr. Livingston, who was a bachelor. The charitable bequests include $5,000 to Mercer Hospital and $5,000 to the Industrial Home of Trenton.

....One of the royal carriages in which King Leopold was riding in Brussels had a collision with an electric street car. His Majesty was thrown violently to the door of his vehicle. He sustained no injury, but the shock was severe. This accident has resulted in King Leopold postponing his departure for the south of France.

....The nearest surviving relative of Abraham Lincoln in Indiana is Elijah Lincoln of Fort Branch, a cousin, who strongly resembles the martyred President. He is six feet two inches tall, of the lank and muscular Lincoln build and though past the age of 74 he is still vigorous and takes active interest in general affairs. Like his famous cousin, he is unpretentious to a degree.

....The Czarina of Russia, who is renowned for her beautiful jewels and extensive wardrobe, has one of the handsomest sable coats in the world. In United States coin it is valued at from $250,000 to $400,000. The Queen of Norway also had a magnificent sable coate which, although not as valuable as that of the czarina, is worth a small fortune, being valued at between $150,000 and $200,000.

....The announcement of the marriage of Judge Casey to Miss Hoskins of Philadelphia follows close on the following odd notice in a local paper of their engagement: "The permanent engagement is announced of Miss Louise Elmslie Hoskins and Patricious H. Casey of Lee." Judge Casey explains that they had a temporary engagement, to be broken off if he and Miss Hoskins discovered that they were not thoroughly congenial.

....It is interesting to note how rapidly the members of the English royal family are dividing up the royal spoils of Europe. An English princess is on the throne of Norway; another, Princess Margaret of Connaught, will some day wear the Swedish crown. The daughter of the late Princess Alice, King Edward's sister, is now the czarina, the son of the Duke of Albany is Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, the eldest daughter of the Duke of Edinburgh in Crown Princess of Rumania, the Crown Princess of Greece is a daughter of King Edward's eldest sister, while a daughter of Princess Henry of Battenberg is on the Spanish throne.

For the Southern Traveler.

Whether one goes South by rail or by automobile, a smart traveling coat, preferably one that shall cover up the costume completely, is a necessity. The experienced traveler who always limits her baggage to the smallest possible compass consistent with comfort and good dressing, be it understood, makes this traveling wrap one of the waterproof kind. When of such material—either one of the satin rubbers or one of the waterproofed cloths that are sold under a variety of names—the wrap answers for many occasions. The smart one that is pictured is in the rubber satin, and displays the familiar but none the less smart black and white check, varied by tiny hairlines in Dresden blue and scarlet, giving some life and character to the plain black and white background that is apt to become a trifle monotonous. The circular cut that is so much in vogue is followed, there being a bias seam down the center back, and the double breasted fronts cut after the same design. The sleeve is a plain coat pattern, and there are a convenient number of pockets inserted on the sides.

DUE TO HEAVY STORMS.

Interruption in Trade the Only Change in Business Conditions.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Despatches to Dun's Review indicate that the only important change in business conditions during the week was the interruption caused by unusually widespread stormy weather. Boston reports that severe storms interfered with transportation and distribution of merchandise, making trade quiet in wholesale and retail branches.

Bank clearings this week at all leading cities in the United States were $3,049,429,433, a small gain over a year ago.

NINE MEN DIE IN EXPLOSION.

Safety Tube on French Torpedo Boat Bursts During Test Trip.

LORIENT, France, Feb. 8.—There has been another catastrophe in the French navy. This morning an explosion occurred on board torpedo boat No. 339, and as a result nine men are dead and two sustained injuries.

Torpedo boat No. 339 was launched but a short time ago, and at the time of the accident she was undergoing, prior to being placed in commission, her full power steam trial in the roadstead. A technical naval committee was on board at the time. The trial was successful, but as the boat was returning to her anchorage a safety tube forming part of the evaporation apparatus burst, and as a result a mass of flame was forced into the stokehole, where the engineer, a quartermaster and nine stokers were at work. The engineer and eight of the stokers were instantly burned to death. Their bodies were practically reduced to ashes. The other stoker was severely injured. The quartermaster succeeded in escaping from the hole with superficial burns only.

The reason of the accident is that the automatic doors that should have closed to prevent the return of the flames to the stokehole did not work.

MILK RESPONSIBLE FOR MANY CASES OF TUBERCULOSIS.

The Royal Commission on Tuberculosis, which was appointed in August, 1901, has just issued a long report on tubercular diseases. This report sets forth that man is liable to infection by bovine tuberculosis, and that cow's milk containing tuberculous bacilli is responsible for a majority of the cases of such infection. These findings are supported by a long series of exhaustive experiments and researches, which are described in the report.

The report is considered to prove that the theory of Professor Robert Koch, of Berlin, announced in 1900, was based upon insufficient and misinterpreted observation. This commission was appointed as a result of Professor Koch's assertion that bovine and human tuberculosis were distinct diseases. The chairman of the commission was the late Sir Michael Foster.

THE TYRANT.

[Charlotte Wilson, in the Atlantic.]

I made a covenant with Time. He spake:
"O braggard brain, presumptuous heart of dust,
Brief energy, dost fret at sloth and rust?
Think'st thou to mend the laggard pace I take?
Behold the hills—the baubles that I make—
Bow down before me: verily thou must!
Then grudge not, glint not, brave the world's distrust,
Wait and stand steadfast while I make and break:
Then see how generous old Time can be!
Then rest, and be his darling! Ho, the sheaves
These hasty folk snatch from my granary,
Then, startled at my shadow, drop like thieves!
I chuckle as I lay them by for thee,
Mellow as sunlight in autumnal eves!"

FANCIES.

Some people say its foolishness
To study day by day;
An' try to lessen folks' distress,
'Cause charities don't pay.
Some say it's foolishness to smile
And sillier still to cry
And utter nonsense to beguile
With songs the hours that fly.

We're told it's foolishness to seek
For fame and fortune grand,
And likewise wrong to be too meek
An' lowly in the land.
But probably the way we live
Is, after all, the best.
It takes some foolishness to give
This life its interest.

ROCKEFELLER'S GIFT.

The gift of $32,000,000 by John D. Rockefeller in the aid of general education, in addition to the $11,000,000 already donated by him for the same object, makes the largest offering by one man for one purpose ever made in this country. The vast sum of $43,000,000 will be used to assist colleges and other institutions of learning, and already colleges in Indiana, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Wisconsin, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Missouri, Colorado and Kansas have been materially assisted to a firm foundation that will enable them to continue their work in a more effective manner, while it is the purpose of the gift to establish on a substantial basis a line of thoroughly equipped colleges across the continent.

While Rockefeller's gift is the largest by an American to any single object, Andrew Carnegie still holds the lead for his benefactions. He has given, it is estimated, $150,000,000 to colleges, libraries and other institutions in America; Mr. Rockefeller has given $79,000,000, Stephen Girard's gifts to Girard College amount to $21,000,000, the gifts of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Stanford to Leland Stanford, Jr., University amount to $20,000,000, P. A. B. Widener gave $9,000,000 to the Memorial Training School for Crippled Children, and George Peabody gave $7,000,000 to educational benefactions; William Marsh Rice gave $6,000,000 to Rice Institution, Houston, Texas; Marshall Field $5,000,000 to the Field Columbian Museum and D. B. Fayerweather $4,000,000 to various colleges. Mr. Rockefeller's gifts have been distributed as follows: General Education Board, $42,000,000; Chicago University, $21,000,000; Rush Medical College, $6,000,000, and other colleges, estimated at $10,000,000.

The General Education Board was chartered by Congress after Mr. Rockefeller had pledged $1,000,000 to be used for the study and promotion of education in the Southern states. The object of the organization is to promote education in the United States by means of gifts and other wise, and in carrying on this work it employs a force of experts in the continuous and systematic study of education in the various states. It is not expected to confine its labors to the distribution of Mr. Rockefeller's gift, but rather to meet a wider need and offer a medium through which other men of means may promote education in an intelligent, systematic and effective way. June 30, 1905, Mr. Rockefeller gave an additional $10,000,000, the income to be used for the benefit of such institutions of learning as the board might deem best adapted to promote a comprehensive system of higher education in the United States. He now gives $32,000,000, one third to be added to the permanent endowment of the board, and the other two thirds to be applied to such specific objects as Mr. Rockefeller or his son may designate.

From the income of the original fund of $16,000,000, conditional subscriptions have already been made to 181 colleges, amounting to $1,077,500, the colleges receiving the gifts to raise a further total sum of $3,362,500. The board has adopted these principles for its guidance: "To co-operate sympathetically and helpfully with the several religious denominations; to select as far as practicable centers of population and wealth as the permanent pivots of an educational system; to mass its gifts on endowments." No gifts from the fund are made to state educational institutions, and certain colleges will be selected for donations or endowment, forming a chain of educational institutions across the continent.

THREATENING LONGWORTH.

There are several humorous features about the story from Cincinnati that Nicholas Longworth is to be retired to private life if Ralph Tyler is appointed surveyor of customs in that city. Tyler, it will be remembered, is the colored man whom the President nominated by way of taking the wind out of Foraker's sails and conveying to the 50,000 colored voters of Ohio the information that their real friend is the President and not the Senator. Now it is reported that the Foraker men have started a "back fire" on the President by threatening the political existence of his son-in-law.

They can't reach Nicholas at once, as he has just been re-elected for another term. But nevertheless there are many amusing features of the matter. In the first place, it shows that Cincinnati Republicans are as much opposed to negro officials in their city as Charleston Democrats are to negro officials in their city. And, too, the objection is made in precisely the same terms in both cities. Dr. Crum was objected to in Charleston because members of the best and oldest families in that city are employed in the custom house, and if there were a colored collector these white people would be subordinated to him. Just so, Cincinnati people are petitioning the President, if he must appoint Tyler to some place, to give him something besides the surveyorship, because that would put members of some of the best families in Cincinnati under a negro boss. The North excoriates the South for its race prejudice, and then when the occasion comes shows that its feelings are the same.

Finally, there is always a good deal of amusement in seeing retaliation met with retaliation. Foraker tried to turn the colored voters against the President. Roosevelt named one of them for a big office. Then the Foraker men started a war on Longworth by way of getting even with the President.

"RISING AGAINST THE SWEDISH MISSIONARIES."

It was a delicious piece of effrontery on the part of the Congo government to give out the information that the insurrection which has just been suppressed was, according to the testimony of its instigator, who has been captured, not aimed at the government but the Swedish missionaries. It recalls a story of the Civil war. A soldier was tried for killing a sheep belonging to a farmer, who was, of course, for the purpose of recovering damages, a loyalist. The facts were too well established to make a denial worth while, and the resourceful soldier admitted that he killed the sheep but urged that he did it in self-defense. He said the sheep came at him and tried to bite him, and he jabbed his bayonet through the mutton to protect himself.

The Swedish missionaries must be about as dangerous as sheep. If they were disposed to be oppressive, what possible chance would they have under the Congo government, which dislikes them because much of the evidence against the Congo officials came from them, and harasses them in various ways. If the Swedish missionaries controlled the government, or even if they had strong influence with it, one could understand a native rising against them. When missionaries have allied themselves with the governing power, or have sought to use the government against a local community, they have created enmities. But these missionaries are Swedes and the officials are Belgians; the missionaries are protestants and the officials are Catholics, and the missionaries have supplied, not all, but much of the evidence of barbarity on the part of the officials or of the natives employed by the officials. Under these circumstances the Swedish missionaries could not have been much more dangerous to the natives than the sheep was to the soldier whom detection robbed of his anticipated feast of fresh mutton.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT REFORMS.

The Treasury Department will be thoroughly overhauled by Secretary Cortelyou when he assumes control March 4. This branch of the government, under several Secretaries, has been running along in the same groove for a number of years, the Secretary having devoted his attention to high finance and left the details of the department to be looked after by subordinates. Some of these are said to have been able to assist their own purses materially by "tipping off" important facts of the Treasury to influential money centres in New York, but Secretary Cortelyou intends to put a stop to this. He proposes a business administration of the department, and those who know his business methods feel assured that in the conduct of the treasury all financial interests will be treated alike, and a square deal will prevail.

The taxpayers of Newport have now a better opportunity than ever before of knowing how much it costs to run the city government, by studying the report of the Committee of Twenty-five. The new city charter has done one thing, which cannot fail to be of value; it has given a more widespread knowledge of city affairs than was possible under the old arrangement, and created a greater interest by directly associating a larger number of citizens with public office. To have done this is alone of importance and should be of benefit to the city. The Committee of Twenty-five has done the taxpayers a valuable service in its investigation and its report.

The report comes from Albany that all the evidence on which was based the complaint of the then state's attorney general, against the American Ice Company, for dissolution of an alleged monopoly of the Ice business, served December 20, has disappeared from the attorney general's office, and cannot be found. When the new attorney general assumed office he took up the case with a view of further proceedings, and found that the evidence had disappeared before the retirement of his predecessor. The work must now be done again.

The War Department has found a way to transport its soldiers over Western railroads at cheap rates. It was desired to transfer a regiment from Nebraska to California, but the railroads refused to do the work at less than tariff rates. The department changed its plan, deciding to postpone the transfer until March 1, when colonists' rates will go into effect on all the Western roads, and the soldiers will be transferred at half the regular rate.

The New York markets have a very large supply of cranberries at prices far below the normal. A year ago there was a scarcity of the berries and high prices prevailed. Last summer the growers increased their crops, and in consequence the market is flooded from the Cape Cod and New Jersey bogs, so that the yield will bring no more to the producers than did last year's crop.

Chief Engineer Stevens of the Panama canal makes an emphatic denial of the report that he has said he would resign if the canal digging is given out to contract. Mr. Stevens has in the past favored contracting for the canal work and his latest statement shows that he is still of that opinion.

The Senatorial deadlock has now existed four weeks, and apparently there is no immediate prospect of its solution. There are 12 more legislative days before the fourth of March, when the office will become vacant and remain so until a legislature, this or another, elects.

The ice harvest progresses and the quality of the ice improves as the days and nights of cold weather continue.

FISHING VILLAGE BLOWS AWAY.

A despatch from Detroit says the entire village at Sandpoint, near Sebewaing, was blown away by the high wind last night, and after a terrifying trip across the lake on the ice, the scene of shanties were dashed to pieces on the shore at Fishpoint.

The village was on the ice at the edge of the shore, and for safety the small buildings were fastened to stakes driven in the ice. The fishermen and their families were asleep when the gale swept across the lake suddenly and tore the wooden houses loose. The men and women in their beds were awakened when the journey began, and the greater number succeeded in getting out of the flying houses, although only with the greatest difficulty could they keep themselves from being swept across the glaring ice in the wake of their homes.

Whirling and tacking before the blast, the houses kept their mad career over the ice for five miles, and were dashed against the shore with great force. All of the dwellings were of frame construction, and most were one story high, with three or four rooms each. They were literally splintered against the shore.

The night was cold and the families, left half clothed on the ice, had a hard time to reach the shore. Two men and a woman, who did not get out of their cottage before it was tipped over on the ice, were injured in the final crash, but none will die.

PHOTOGRAPHING AT A DISTANCE

Professor Korn by his discovery of the means and method of photographing at long distances, made by means of telephone wires, took an excellent photograph of President Fallieres over the long circuit of 800 miles. M. Louis Barthou, French minister of public works, at the conclusion of the experiments, which were eminently successful, announced his intention of establishing long distance telephotographic posts between Paris and Marseilles, which shall be at the service not only of the illustrated newspapers, but of use for the detection of criminals. M. Barthou is also arranging for an international service of the same kind, with the co-operation of the governments of England and Germany, for long distance photography between Paris and London and Paris and Frankfort.

Salaries of Officials of State Sanatorium Raised.

Labor Men Thank Governor Higgins—Sale of Georgiaville Mills.

Rowland G. Hazard of South Kingstown was chosen chairman of the board of trustees of the State Sanatorium for Consumptives at the reorganization meeting of the board, to succeed J. Fred Gibson, whose term as a member expired January 31. John C. Pegram of Providence, who was appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate as Mr. Gibson's successor, qualified and took his seat. Dr. William H. Peters, a member of the board, was elected secretary, without salary. George F. Whitford, who has been treasurer of the board, resigned. According to the statement of a member of the board the office fees at the institution, amounting to from $200 to $300 annually, are hereafter to be turned in to defray other incidental expenses of the institution. It was voted to retain Superintendent Barnes at a salary of $3,000, an increase of $750. Superintendent Barnes has received an offer from the State of Maryland to take charge of a similar institution in that state at $3,000 a year, and the board decided that the situation warranted an increase in his salary sufficient to make it an object to him to remain. The board also raised the salary of Dr. Gassett, assistant superintendent, from $600 to $1,000. The following committees were appointed; Executive committee, John C. Pegram, J. Truman Burdick; building committee, Dr. W. H. Peters and Henry E. Nugent of Johnston; committee on grounds, Rowland G. Hazard and J. Truman Burdick. Chairman Hazard is a member ex-officio of all committees.

After a protracted session held last night the Providence Central Trades and Labor Union passed a resolution which included a vote of thanks to Governor Higgins for his recent action in recognizing the protest of the Central Trades and Labor Union against the re-appointment of Colonel George H. Webb as commissioner of industrial statistics and in naming Charles Carroll for the office. The vote of thanks to the governor followed a lengthy discussion, in which some of the leading labor men in the city participated. The resolution was presented by Charles H. Lee, chairman of the committee which waited on the governor to protest against the re-appointment of Colonel Webb. It was finally carried after a vigorous attempt to delay action, including a "filibuster" by George E. Brady. But the sympathy of the majority was clearly with the resolution, which passed with a hearty vote. A set of resolutions in accordance with the vote will be presented to the governor.

Negotiations for the sale of the Bernon mills at Georgiaville have been practically completed, and next week it is expected, the title will pass to the possession of H. F. Lippitt of the Manville Company. The deal is one of the largest mill transactions made in the vicinity for a long time. The value of the property is estimated at $225,000, a sum which is understood to cover the value of the two mills, the tenement houses and the supplies of coal, cotton and other goods now on hand. The newest mill was built by Zachariah Allen in 1853, and the other large building is still older. The equipment consists of 641 looms and 26,800 spindles. Both steam and water power are used at the plant. In addition to the mills themselves, there are about 100 tenements, making up what are known as the old and the new villages, and comprising other tenement houses in many parts of Georgiaville. The old name of the concern was the Bernon Manufacturing Company, and this later was changed to the Bernon Mills, and the capital stock reduced from $250,000 to $125,000. The mills are taxed in the town of Smithfield for $250,000.

The contention of Minnie Potter Barber of Peace Dale that undue influence on the part of her sister and brother-in-law caused her father, Joseph S. Barber, to so dispose of his property by will that she received but $1,000 out of an estate valued at $40,000 is sustained by a decision handed down by Presiding Justice Sweetland in the superior court of Washington county yesterday. The decision justifies the finding of the jury which set the will aside, and denies the motion for a new trial. The case has aroused a great deal of interest in the South County on account of the prominence of the parties, especially in the town of South Kingstown, where Mr. Barber was for many years postmaster, and where one of the principal beneficiaries, John A. Allen, the husband of Mr. Barber's first daughter, was town treasurer up to the time of the election last spring. Joseph S. Barber died in November, 1906, at the age of 73, leaving real and personal property valued at $40,000, a large portion of which he had amassed as proprietor of a store at Peace Dale before he retired from business, 18 years ago. After his death an instrument purporting to be his last will and testament was filed, which left $1,000 to his youngest daughter, Minnie Potter Barber; $500 to one Mary Watty Brown, and the remainder of the estate to John A. Allen and Mrs. Allen, his son-in-law and elder daughter, and to their children. This will was contested and set aside, and now the superior court sustains the opponents of the will.

In the Brown class of '80 prize debate at Brown University, Zechariah Chafee, Jr., of Providence won the first prize of $40 and H. H. Thurlow of Buffalo the second prize of $30. The $30 for the best essay was divided between G. H. Wyman of Lawrence, Mass., and Leo White of New London. The question discussed was: "Should the engineering degrees at Brown University be made advanced degrees, to be obtained only by candidates who have taken the degree of bachelor of arts or bachelor of philosophy?" White and Thurlow upheld the affirmative side of the question, while Wyman and Chafee took the negative. Each speaker was allowed 11 minutes to present the main speech and eight minutes for rebuttal. Chafee, who won the first prize, is a son of Zechariah Chaffee, secretary of the class of '80, which gives the prize.

Mrs. Jeanie R. Bartlett, widow of Rear Admiral John R. Bartlett, U. S. N., died suddenly in Nice, France, Wednesday after a brief illness. She had been at Nice since the first of last December, in company with her two daughters, Misses Ida R. and Eleanor Bartlett. Mrs. Bartlett's death came as a surprise to her relatives in Providence, including her sisters, Mrs. William Goddard, Mrs. Joseph Bridgham and Mrs. Eleanor J. Roelker, and a brother, T. A. Jenckes. While not in robust health for some time, there had been no intimation of any sudden termination of her life. Mrs. Bartlett was born in Providence about 60 years ago and was a daughter of the late Thomas A. Jenckes. She was married to Rear Admiral Bartlett, then a lieutenant, in 1872, and accompanied her husband on his journeys about the globe in the naval service, visiting points in the Far East and European cities. Her husband was a captain at the time of his retirement from active service, but was made a rear admiral in 1897 by a special act of Congress. Since Rear Admiral Bartlett's death, Mrs. Bartlett had spent most of her time in this country.

Of unusual interest was a Gretna Green marriage which took place in Providence Wednesday. The bride was a granddaughter of General Robert E. Lee and the groom a relative of former President Grover Cleveland. The ceremony took place in the general parlor of the Crown Hotel in the afternoon. The fact of the couple's high family connections was not known either at the hotel or at the city hall, where the license was obtained. The groom was Archibald Harmon and the bride Mrs. Anna Smith Hibbs. They arrived on the 2 o'clock train from Boston, and having completed other arrangements went to the city hall and took out their license.

FINDS QUEEN MEIR'S TOMB.

Theodore M. Davis Excavates Mummy of Famous Egyptian Mother of "Heretic King."

Announcement is made in a copyright cable from London to the New York Times of the sensational discovery by Mr. Theodore M. Davis at Thebes, or Luxor, in Egypt of the tomb and mummy of the famous Egyptian queen Meie. According to the New York Times, Meie was the mother and inspirer of the famous "Heretic King" of Egyptology.

The tomb is a plain square sepulchre cut out of the rock, and adjoins the tomb of Rameses IX. Unfortunately the tomb lay in the bed of a watercourse, and owing to the percolation of the water through the rock such perishable objects as wood and the royal mummy itself has suffered severely. Apart from this, the tomb, when it was entered, was in the same condition in which it had been left by priests amid the throes of a religious revolution that had spent its force before Moses was born. The tomb of Meie bears witness to the blind rage of the victorious priesthood of Thebes and the intensity of their hatred toward the Heretic King, whose name they carefully erased from every article in the tomb on which it had been inscribed.

The men, however, who thus violated the tomb were no common thieves. The jewelry of the queen and the sheets of solid gold with which the sepulchre was literally filled were left untouched. Wherever the excavators walked they trod upon fragments of gold plate and gold leaf. The coffin is intact, and is a superb example of jeweller's work. The wood of which it was composed is entirely covered with a frame of gold inlaid with lapis lazuli, cornelian and green glass.

The mummy itself was wrapped from head to foot in sheets of gold. The water which had been for so many ages draining through it had reduced it to little more than pulp, and it fell to pieces when examined in the presence of several Egyptologists January 26.

There were bracelets on the arms and a necklace of gold beads and ornaments of gold inlaid with precious stones around the queen's neck, while her head was still encircled by an object priceless and unique—the imperial crown of the queens of ancient Egypt.

It is simply and exquisitely fashioned and represents a royal vulture holding a signet ring in either talon, while its wings surround the head and are fastened at the tips behind by a pin. The whole is of solid gold without ornament.

When, two years ago, Mr. Davis excavated, in the famous Valley of the Kings at Thebes, the tomb of Queen Meie's parents, the discovery was hailed by Professor Maspero and others as the greatest in the history of Egyptology. Mr. Davis's latest discovery is undoubtedly even more important than that of the unviolated tomb he laid bare in 1905.

Queen Meie—sometimes spelled Teye—was the wife of Amen-hotep III., one of the Pharaohs of the eighteenth dynasty. He reigned for 36 years, from about 1,410 B. C., and he chose as his principal wife a woman, not of royal blood, but the beautiful Meie. It had long been believed that she was of Mesopotamian descent, and this theory was corroborated by inscriptions found by Mr. Davis in the tomb of Yuna and Thun, her parents. Meie's son, Amen-hotep IV., is one of the most interesting characters in Egyptian history because of the religious reform he attempted. He endeavored to replace the old religion of Egypt by the exclusive worship of the sun, but his attempt left no permanent results. After his reign of 18 years his innovations were abolished and the old religion was re-introduced. It is believed that Meie was largely responsible for her son's religious opinions. Mr. Davis, when in America, usually lives at his Newport cottage, the "Reef."

MONEY FOR LABORERS.

Ice Cutting and Snow Shovelling Furnish Welcome Employment for Many Men.

The ice cutters are still busily at work, everywhere. The new company has nearly filled the first of its houses on Sherman's wharf, where spectators can see a busy scene without taking the trouble of going to the pond. A gang of lively workers is employed and the ice is hustled from the wagons, hoisted and stowed in the house in a workmanlike manner. The enterprise and hustle of the managers of the new company is calling forth many words of commendation, as people like to see hustlers, even if they do not care to hustle themselves. The hoisting arrangement at the new house is a novelty in this section, but it does the work expeditiously and the ice cannot come too quickly for the men who are working the lift. There is some talk of more than one house being filled if the ice weather continues. The company does not believe in waiting for Maine ice when it can get ice here, and will hustle right along until the weather stops the workers.

The highway department has finished the work of breaking out the Ocean Drive. It took three days, and it was finished last night. At some points on Ridge road the snow was banked from eight to nine feet deep and the men had to work in two relays, just as in digging a deep trench.

The work of carting snow from Thames and Spring streets is finished and today the only carts used by the city for snow are the highway carts on Broadway. The Old Colony Street Railway Company is still carting from Levin street, but will finish today. Men are breaking the snow banks along the curb, so that gutters may be cleared in case it thaws.

This snow shovelling and carting has given employment to a number of men and teams and the money put in circulation among men who were idle is considerable and will help materially. The work was expeditiously done. Taken with the ice cutting, quite a sum of money will be spent for labor and horse hire the past two weeks, and especially this week.

POLICE COMMISSION BUSINESS.

The Police Commission last evening organized for the year by the election of the following officers: Chairman, J. W. Horton; clerk, George H. Vaughan.

The following appointments were made: Chief of Police, James R. Crowley; driver of police ambulance, Frank L. Wheeler; janitor of police station, Levi Jackson; police matron, Mrs. Harriet E. Rogers; dog constable, Charles E. Ash, Jr., special policeman, Michael J. Holberg.

There were several applications for the position of dog constable, but the board was satisfied with the way in which Mr. Ash had filled the position the past year and he was re-appointed, as well as all the others.

Expected by the Wetmore Men But Not Admitted by Any Others.

The Senatorial situation remains, as a week ago, unchanged on the surface, all three candidates holding their own. The Wetmore forces are more determined than ever, and it is acknowledged by all sides that they have settled to their present line of action until the end and that there will be no further attempts to break them. On the other hand the Wetmore supporters are convinced that there will be a break in the ranks of the support of the other candidates at no distant date. It will hardly be next week, but it is coming, they say. Many of the Colt men are reported as saying they are ready to break but do not wish to be the first to take the step. If only one or two could be started it is said that Wetmore would have more than enough votes for an election in short order. Senator Wetmore during his stay in Providence has been receiving many letters from the other Senators in Washington, expressing their hopes that he will be returned.

DEATH OF PAUL EULER.

News has been received of the death in Providence yesterday of Mr. Paul Euler, formerly of this city, in his eighty-fifth year. Mr. Euler was for many years, nearly a half-century, a resident of Newport, and was one of the oldest of the German residents of the city. He was a painter by trade, and in his younger days was considered a good one. At one time he was a member of the painting firm of Peckham & Euler. As advancing years incapacitated him for doing work, he became steward of the German Club and continued to fill that position until about a year and a half ago, when the infirmities of age called for a rest from all work. He then went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Turner, in Providence and it was at her home that he died. He had not been well, but at the end death came quite unexpectedly.

The deceased was a good amateur musician and at one time played in the Redwood Band. He was a member of Ottila Lodge, D. O. H. He was three times married, his third wife surviving him, and leaves four daughters—Mrs. T. G. S. Turner, Mrs. Lyons and Miss Euler of Providence and Mrs. Gadsby of Stone Bridge, Tiverton. The funeral service will take place in Providence Monday and the interment will be here Monday afternoon.

—Dr. W. T. Bull writes today to Mr. F. H. Wiswell that his brother, ex-Congressman Melville Bull, is in remarkably good health at St. Augustine, Fla. He and his attendant go fishing and driving daily.

—Mr. Stephen D. Thaw, second cousin of Harry K. Thaw, is here to inspect the estate near Bailey's Beach owned by his father, Mr. Benjamin Thaw. Mr. and Mrs. Thaw have been abroad some time. Mrs. Thaw, who was taken ill after sailing, is convalescent.

—Miss Evelyn Cavendish-Bentinck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cavendish-Bentinck, granddaughter of Mrs Maturin Livingston and niece of Mrs. Ogden Mills, was married in London today to Mr. Walter Burns, nephew of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan and grandson of the late Junius P. Morgan.

—The sleighing is good everywhere, even if the snow on Bellevue avenue is a trifle heavy for speeding, and about every one who has a sleigh is or has been out with it, enjoying the fun. There has been a large number of sleighs on Bellevue avenue afternoons, and spectators have also gathered to see the fun.

—At the mothers' meeting at the Potter School yesterday afternoon, Dr. Robert Kerr repeated his talk on "The Prevention of Contagious Diseases," given at the Carey last year. At the meeting at the Cogswell next Friday afternoon Rev. George W. Quick, D. D., will speak on "The Parents' Responsibility for their Children's Morals."

—Mr. Hugh D. Auchincloss has been named as one of a committee of 25 to continue the work begun by the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor toward securing a purer milk supply for New York. Mr. Auchincloss probably knows as much about pure milk as any one on the committee; at least, a visit to his dairy at Hammersmith Farm would lead one to think he does.

SAILS FOR NEW LONDON.

Steamer Warren, Her Hull Patched With Canvas, Starts Under Her Own Power.

Steamer Warren sailed from Sullivan's wharf for New London at 11:30 this morning. It had been hoped to be able to get away yesterday, but this was not possible and she remained over until today. The weather conditions were about ideal as she left. She went ashore at the Dumplings last Saturday night, was hauled off Tuesday night and sailed this morning, under her own steam. The diver patched up that part of her hull which chafed on the rocks with a strip of heavy canvas 40 feet long.

Before sailing one of the wrecking pumps was taken off, while the second and larger one was left on board, coupled with the boilers of the ship, for service as might be required on the trip.

Her clearing from Kinsley's wharf was not without incident, as a large hawser was caught in the steamer's wheel as the lines were let go and for a while it looked as if this might tie up the boat here at the dock until a diver should cut out the line. As it was, the continued turning of the engines cut the line away, so that she was still able to navigate, even though there was considerable line tangled in the big wheel.

From here she went to Jamestown, where the automobile which has been on board was discharged, to be taken to New York, on one of the other steamers.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mr. W. P. Buffum of Newport was in town today.

Fort Greble launch was able to reach her dock at west ferry today, the ice cut out by the Swartwout yesterday having been driven outside by today's wind.

Mr. W. W. Stadler, who has been confined to his home since Christmas by illness, was out today for the first time enjoying a sleigh ride with Mr. George W. Peckham, Jr.

Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Burrows, who have been spending a portion of their honeymoon at Rock Ledge, Florida, returned today. Mr. Burrows will officiate at St. Matthew's tomorrow.

Steamer Warren stopped here today to land an automobile which has been aboard since she grounded a week ago tonight on the Dumplings.

A party of cottage seekers for the coming season was in town today.

The band gave another of its series of whists and socials in the Gardner House last evening. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tefft won the first prizes and Mrs. A. L. Peckham and J. C. Tefft, the consolations. After the whist refreshments were served and dancing was then in order until early this morning.

RHODE ISLAND MAKES GOOD SHOWING.

The adjutant general has received from the War Department, Washington, the military reports of the past year. The report shows that Rhode Island stood first at the government inspections of last spring in point of attendance, repeating its splendid record of the previous year. The brigade turned out 98 officers and 917 men at the inspections, out of a total roster of 99 officers and [illegible] men, the percentage of absentees being but 2.81 per cent. New York stands second with 5.10 per cent of absentees, and Minnesota third with 4.05 per cent of the men absent. In 1904 Rhode Island was second.

MRS. SPOONER IN "MARTHA."

Next Saturday evening Newport will have an opportunity to hear the well known opera "Martha," sung at the Opera House by the Jordan Opera Company, which recently played a successful three nights' engagement at the Providence Opera House. Newport will have special interest in the production as Mrs. Carrie Doty-Spooner, the well known vocalist of this city, will appear in the title role and those who know how well she can sing will be assured that she will be agreeably cast as Martha in Flotow's opera.

THE MINSTREL SHOW.

The advance agent for the Aquidneck Minstrels is now busy with posters and cards, which are making a display in the shop windows. The committee on the sale of tickets has put out a large number, sending them to stores and wherever else there would seem to be a chance to sell any. The troupe numbers 90 and is about evenly divided between men and women, thus making one of the biggest minstrel shows ever staged here by local talent. The committee feels that it has secured the best amateur talent which has ever appeared on the local stage. One of the features will be the Yankee Doodle girls, and to show that this aggregation really exists Mr. Commerford has a group photograph in his window. The rehearsals have been going on almost nightly, but now it is necessary to do some work on the real stage and this will begin tomorrow afternoon as it is impossible to have the stage weekday nights.

Y. M. C. A. ENTERTAINMENTS.

Last evening ten of the Intermediates of the Young Men's Christian Association were entertained at a house party by Miss Grace McLeish at her parents' residence on Roseneath avenue. This morning a party of ten Intermediates visited the Newport Illuminating Company's plant, being shown about the works by John T. Rutledge, a member of the Association and night engineer at the Illuminating Company's works. This afternoon a party of 20 Juniors were given a sleigh ride.

WRECKING THE RICHMOND.

Conflict of Interest Between the Solicitor's Men and the Scott Company's Crew.

There promise to be some complications over stranded tug Richmond. Immediately after she went ashore the crew deserted her, using a line to assist them over the icy rocks to the snow-covered ground. Tug Solicitor was sent for upon the arrival of Captain Brown at Fort Adams and upon going to the scene and finding the vessel deserted Captain Jack O'Neill, like a true tow boatman, placed a man on board and since then at least one man has been on the craft all the time.

When a vessel is deserted at sea and a crew boards her and takes charge they gain a lien on the craft. Opinions seem to differ as to just how far this will serve in favor of the Solicitor's crew in the present case. The line which the crew used to help them ashore, too, is construed by some as tying the vessel to the shore. It is a pretty illusey affair to hold the boat by, but it may in law prove a line of great strength, even though it is not now made fast at the shore end.

Last evening Managing Owner Willetts arrived from New York and with him came Wrecker Scott of New London. During the evening a powerful lighter and a tug of the Scott Company arrived, and early this morning the owner, the wrecker and the wrecking fleet went to the scene. On board the stranded tug they found an army of occupation and returned to the harbor this noon.

Now that Wrecker Sullivan has the Warren off his hands he is making arrangements to go to the Richmond and has a diver prepared to make an under-water examination this afternoon. Just which wrecking gang will go to work has apparently yet to be decided, but it can be assumed that both will strive for every point of vantage in maritime law. Mr. Willetts brings information from New York that the tug has been again insured since the insurance expired, and the underwriters may be expected to desire to say something regarding what shall be done with the craft.

Up to the present no work has been done toward floating the tug and she has not suffered from her few hours on the rocks without attention.

Cortelyou to Make Needed Reforms in Treasury Department.

No Action to be Taken on Postal Commission Report—Beveridge's Speech the Longest on Record.

[Washington correspondence of the News]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—George B. Cortelyou, now Postmaster General, is expected to commence a thorough overhauling of the Treasury Department when he becomes Secretary of the Treasury next month. Mr. Cortelyou is universally credited with having done good work in his present position, and the application of the methods he has used so effectively in handling postal affairs is depended on to bring about some needed reforms in the financial establishment of the government. It is admitted that certain interests in New York have long been enabled to secure information regarding money matters far in advance of other interests which have the same right to such information. Although Mr. Cortelyou positively declines to discuss his plans, there is excellent reason for the belief that as soon as he becomes Secretary of the Treasury he will take steps to make such "leaks" impossible in the future. In this work he will have the assistance of Frank H. Hitchcock, at present first assistant Postmaster General, who has been connected with Mr. Cortelyou for some years. Mr. Hitchcock will be made an assistant Secretary of the Treasury succeeding Arthur H. Statter.

No action will be taken at the present session of Congress on the recommendation of the postal commission appointed to investigate and report on a plan looking to the curtailment of second class mail privileges. Among other things, the commission recommended that newspapers with Sunday magazines and other "features" not complementary to the news sections and printed on different paper should not be carried at second class rates, and that those rates should be denied also to papers more than 50 per cent of the superficial area of which is devoted to advertisements. The report of the commission is so comprehensive and the issues involved promise such determined opposition that the postoffice committees of the two houses have decided it will be useless to attempt to do anything in the remaining three weeks of the session. A positive announcement to this effect has been made by Chairman Overstreet of the House committee. A long step toward other reforms in the postal service has been taken, however, in a section of the House bill which provides for a more equitable system of payment for the transportation of mails by the railroads. It is estimated that at least $5,000,000 per year will be saved the government as a result of this new plan, for which Representative Murdock of Kansas deserves the most credit.

The people's lobby thinks it has discovered a "joker" in that portion of the agricultural bill which makes provision for the enforcement of the pure food law enacted by the last session of Congress. The paragraph objected to is an amendment offered by Chairman Tawney of the House appropriations committee and stipulates that no part of the appropriation of $650,000 for the purpose named shall be used for the payment of compensation or expenses of any officer or other person employed by a state, county or municipal government. It is alleged that this amendment, if enacted into law, would greatly hamper and delay the work sought to be done under the pure food law, as it would necessitate the employment and training of a large force of federal employes whose services would not be necessary if there was co-operation between the state and national authorities and if state, county and municipal officials could be used at nominal expense. Such independent action on the part of the government, it is estimated by Representative Mann of Illinois, would cost $5,000,000 a year instead of the $650,000 provided in the agricultural bill.

Senator Beveridge's speech on his anti-child labor bill, the delivery of which consumed the greater part of three legislative days, has just been published in the Congressional Record and is shown to have been one of the longest ever made on the floor of either house. It occupies about 56 pages of the Record. Its unusual length is largely due to the many extracts from statistical reports and other data, most of which the Indianian read in the course of his speech. There is little or no chance of the enactment of a child labor bill into law at this session, but it is obvious that Senator Beveridge has attracted wide attention to the subject and has created a healthy sentiment in favor of the proposed legislation.

Members of the Senate and the House are commenting on the odd coincidence of the death of Representative Flack of New York on the same day that the House devoted to eulogies of the late Senator Gorman of Maryland. Under ordinary circumstances the House would have adjourned immediately after the announcement of Mr. Flack's death was made; but, as it was, the Gorman eulogies were continued, and then adjournment was had as a mark of respect to both the deceased statesmen.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mr. Ralph Hazard has been quite ill during the past two weeks, but is now slowly improving.

Mr. John T. Carr, who has been seriously ill, is better.

The services at the Methodist Church will be patriotic in character tomorrow, especially the evening service, which Rev. H. H. Critchlow has especially prepared in honor of Abraham Lincoln.

The Paradise Club this week met with Mrs. William J. Peckham, when eight persons ventured out through the partially cleared roads. An interesting account of the life of Mary Livermore was read and a new story was commenced, a few chapters being read. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Harry E. Peckham at "Hillside."

About 25 teams are carting ice from the north end of the town pond at Green End, for the Independent Ice Company. A large area of ground is kept covered with ice, three and four cakes deep, from which the teamers cart five and six loads a day. It is an interesting sight to watch the harvesting, which is being done under rather trying circumstances, since previous to the marking and cutting of the ice snow fell to quite a depth, which entirely covers the surface of the pond, which must be cleared away. A large number of people visit the ponds to witness the harvesting.

GOLD IN BEACH SAND.

[Philadelphia Record.]

Ever since Nome was settled miners have worked the sands along the beach of Seward peninsula, and millions of dollars' worth of gold has been taken out. And although the whole shore has been worked for miles east and west of the town, still the process goes on. Where running water is plentiful sluice boxes are used, and several plans of this nature may be seen in the neighborhood of Penny river. But if "broke" a couple of men can always make a "grub stake" with a "long tom" anywhere along the shore line.

Easterners, as a rule, are doubtful concerning the finding of gold in the sea sands. They are ever ready to quote the experience of their neighbors in extracting gold from sea water somewhere in Maine. It is a fact, however, that the floor of the sea at Nome contains gold in paying quantities. Prospect holes have been dug through the ice in winter, and the sand taken out has never failed to yield precious grains of the yellow metal. The tundra on which Nome stands has been built up by the storms of centuries, and the process is going on today as in the past, each severe storm throwing up a barrier of sand and by just so much reducing the sea area. This ridge of sand thus added to the land area contains the gold that invites the man of small means or no means at all; and one will always find them in twos and threes, in rubber hip boots and with the long tom placed in the surf, where the water is right at hand. One of the partners carries the sand in a pail and deposits it in the upper end of the box. The other with a pail attached to a long stick, throws water from the surf onto the sand, washing it into the sea, while the gold particles are caught in the riffles in the bottom of the box.

No process has yet been formed for taking gold from the sands at any distance from the shore line, as the severe storms that frequently rise would wreck the strongest machinery. Therefore, so long as the supply holds out, the long tom will be one of the sights at Nome.

CATARRH GROWING LESS.

Due to the Use of Hyomei. Cures Without Stomach Dosing.

Inquiry at the local drug stores shows that the sale of remedies for catarrh has decreased very much in the last year. Some medicines which were formerly bought a gross at a time are now purchased in half dozen lots, and are rarely called for.

There is one notable exception to this decrease in sale, and that is Hyomei. This remedy is, in fact, responsible for the decrease in sale of catarrh medicines, as it has made so many cures of catarrhal troubles that naturally there is much less demand for remedies for that disease.

People who have been trying different medicines for catarrh during many years were induced to begin the use of Hyomei by Wright & Hay's guarantee, that the remedy would cost nothing unless cured. Much to their surprise, they found that Hyomei did what it claimed (if it did not Wright & Hay could not sell it under this guarantee,) and they soon became ardent advocates of the use of Hyomei.

There is no disagreeable stomach dosing with Hyomei; it is used by being breathed through a neat pocket inhaler. The complete outfit costs but one dollar, extra bottles, if needed, fifty cents.

With every Hyomei outfit Wright & Hay give their personal guarantee that the money will be refunded unless the treatment cures, so that you run no risk at all in buying this reliable remedy.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

It's a pleasure to tell our readers about a Cough Cure like Dr. Shoop's. For years Dr. Shoop has fought against the use of Opium, Chloroform, or other unsafe ingredients commonly found in Cough remedies. Dr. Shoop, it seems, has welcomed the Pure Food and Drug Law recently enacted, for he has worked along similar lines many years. For nearly 20 years Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure containers have had a warning printed on them against Opium and other narcotic poisons. He has thus made it possible for mothers to protect their children by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Sold by John M. Callahan.

AT FULTON CENTENNIAL.

Congress Expected to Appropriate $25,000 for a Building.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—There is every indication, in the opinion of the State Department, that Congress will answer the appeal made by the department to the President and by him to the Senate and the House, by appropriating $25,000 for this government's representation at the international maritime exposition at Bordeaux this summer. The display will be opened May 1, and officials of the government who are interested believe that early action will be taken.

The exposition, which is to be one of the greatest in Europe this year, is the centennial of the invention of steam navigation by Robert Fulton, and his name will be given great honor. The family of Fulton will furnish some of the great inventor's models and other relics of his achievements. Among other things it has been decided that at least one American warship will be sent to Bordeaux during the exposition. It is likely that two vessels of the Tacoma class will be assigned to the duty.

Many of the great nations will participate by sending exhibits and in some cases men-of-war. This government has in mind the construction of a pavilion. As soon as Congress has made the desired appropriation, a commission will probably be appointed to gather from museums and other places relics and exhibits worth sending to the exposition.

The exposition will be opened in May and close the last day of October.

GUILTY OF MISDEMEANOR.

Any Canadian Newspaper Publishing Shocking Evidence of a Trial.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Feb. 9.—The postmaster general has been asked to deny the use of the mails to a local paper which printed the details of Thursday's evidence in the Thaw trial at New York. The postmaster general said that he had not read the report in the newspaper mentioned, but the law was clear on the point and he would see that it was enforced. Any newspaper publishing filthy evidence of a trial in court, he said, would be guilty of a misdemeanor under the Canadian law.

OVER FISHING QUESTION.

Premier Laurier Says Canada Sympathizes With Newfoundland.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Feb. 9.—Mr. Lewis (West Huron) asked Premier Laurier in the house yesterday to make a declaration of sympathy with the people of Newfoundland and in their troubles with the United States over the fisheries.

Premier Laurier said it was with some hesitation that he consented to make a pronouncement on the subject. The question is now before the colonial office, continued the premier, and British diplomatists are not handling the matter in a way satisfactory to Newfoundland. Sir Wilfrid briefly reviewed the fishery question, and said that Newfoundland's troubles might any day become those of Canada. The Canadian people therefore sympathized with the people of Newfoundland. But whatever difficulties there are to be settled, he said in conclusion, they would be settled by peaceful means, and never by the arbitrament of war.

FOUR ALARMS RUNG IN.

St. Mary's Parochial School in Boston West End Destroyed.

BOSTON, Feb. 9.—The congested tenement district in the West end was threatened by fire early that ruined the St. Mary's parochial school on Cooper street. The entire interior of the structure was burned out, and so dangerous did the situation become that three alarms were sounded in quick succession, followed soon afterwards by a fourth. There was much excitement among the foreign element living in the vicinity, and those in adjoining tenements were ordered to vacate by the firemen. The school was formerly the Cooper armory, an old-fashioned three-and-a-half story brick building, with some historic interest, as in the Draft riots of 1863 Major Jones fired through the doors at the mob that stormed the armory, killing and wounding several people.

The blaze started in the basement. Last night some of the St. Mary's parish young people held a "barn party" there, in aid of the sufferers from the Jamaica earthquake and fire, and a small fire was discovered where some boys had been smoking cigarettes. This was soon extinguished, as it was thought, but after the party broke up some smouldering embers broke out afresh, and had gained good headway when discovered. So far as known no one was injured, as the janitor and his family were the only occupants of th building, and they escaped easily. The loss is estimated at $40,000, covered by insurance.

ON AMHERST COLLEGE FACULTY

Death of Professor Charles E. Garman at His Home.

AMHERST, Mass., Feb. 9.—Professor Charles E. Garman, one of the most prominent members of the faculty of Amherst College, died at his home here today after an illness of about three weeks from bronchitis, which developed into a malignant throat disease. He was professor of moral philosophy and metaphysics, and had been connected with the college since 1880. He was 57 years of age and is survived by a widow.

Charles E. Garman was born in Limlington, Me., and was graduated from Amherst in 1872. He was principal of the Ware High School for four years, then studied at the Yale Divinity School until 1879. The following year he came to Amherst as instructor in mathematics, and in 1881 was made instructor in philosophy. From 1882 to 1889, he served as associate professor of moral philosophy, and in 1892 was made professor of moral philosophy and metaphysics, retaining this position for the remainder of his life.

Amherst College conferred the degree of doctor of divinity upon Professor Garman in 1896. At the last Amherst Commencement 13 of Professor Garman's former pupils, who are now college presidents and professors, presented him with a book on philosophy, which they had prepared. Professor Garman was a trustee of Mount Holyoke College.

NEW LIQUOR LICENSE BILL.

Measure Contains Provisions Forbidding Selling on Christmas and Restricting Number.

There will be a distinct tightening of the conditions governing the granting and holding of liquor licenses in the cities and towns of this state if a law is made out of the bill which was presented in the house yesterday by Representative Bliss of Cranston. The bill provides that no license shall authorize any person to sell liquor on Christmas except in licensed taverns and licensed victualling houses, and then only when served with food in regular dining rooms. It makes provisions which are not now in the law, to the effect that liquor shall not be sold to persons of notoriously intemperate habits, and regarding the sale of liquor on any pass book of any store or in exchange for any wares or merchandise.

The bill seeks to restrict the number of licenses in any city or town to one for each 500 inhabitants.

The fee fixed for a license to sell pure spirituous, intoxicating and malt liquors at retail only is $800 for the city of Providence, $350 for all other cities and towns of over 15,000 inhabitants, $200 for all towns of from 6,000 to 15,000 inhabitants, and for all towns of less than 6,000 inhabitants not more than $300 nor less than $200.

The bill provides that the sureties which are demanded for the granting of the various licenses shall be residents of the state or that the surety shall be in a surety company authorized to do business in the state.

President Harris Finds Fault With Methods of Education Board.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—President A. W. Harris, of Northwestern University, last night, in commenting on the gift of John D. Rockefeller to the General Education Board for the purpose of promoting the cause of education throughout the country, found one serious objection to the system of the board in handing out the money.

"The colleges that need the money the most cannot afford to have it because of the conditions which must be complied with to get it," says President Harris. "For instance, Beloit was offered $200,000 by the board as one third of an endowment, on condition that the college would raise the other two thirds, $400,000. This Beloit found impossible, and consequently could obtain only $60,000 of the amount. The college that can raise two thirds of such an endowment is not the college that needs the money the most."

11—The tone of the market became weaker, but the extreme losses did not exceed fractional bounds, except in isolated instances. A brief bull campaign in Sugar benefited it 1⅝. American Ice Securities dropped 3.

Closing—Money on call, nominal, no loans; Time loans, active and firmer; prime mercantile paper, 5¾ @ 6¼; sterling exchange, steady at $4.84.70 @ $4.84.75 for demand, and at $4.80.60 @ $4.80.65 for 60 day bills; posted rates, $4.81½ and $4.85½; commercial bills, $4.80⅜ @ ½; bar silver, 68⅜; Mexican dollars, 53¼; government bonds, firm; railroad bonds heavy. NEWPORT VS. NEWPORT.

New Hampshires Meet Defeat in Basket Ball Game.

Beaten by Reserves 31 to 15—Juniors Win Inter-Class Tournament at Rogers High.

There was another basket ball game at the armory Friday night, Newport, Rhode Island, vs. Newport, New Hampshire, and Newport, Rhode Island, won, 31 to 15. It was a win for the Reserves and New Hampshire had to take second place, but the large gathering of rooters who saw the game acknowledged that the other Newport had a fast team. It was able to put up a varied attack with much sharp, short passing that called for a strong defense to hold it down. On the defensive the team was exceptionally strong and it was almost impossible for the home team to score at first. At the end of the first half the home team seemed to have the visitors going; at least, the score, 19 to 3, looked that way.

In the second half the visitors became aroused at the way the game was going and proceeded to make the cranks anxious as they rolled up a score by fast playing. It was no use, however, for the Reserves scored as many points as the visitors in the second half. In this half it seemed as though the referee was rather one-sided in some of his decisions and gave the visitors much the best of it. Perhaps this was because everyone was feeling anxious. The game was clean but in the second half somewhat rough, owing to the strenuous manner in which the visitors "sailed in" for a win.

The defensive work of the Reserves in the first half was something worth seeing. It was not until the last minute of play that the visitors were able to score from the field, and then it was a back who came up and counted on a lucky shot. In the first five minutes of play so sharp was the defensive work on both sides that the Reserves had but one shot at the basket and the visitors four. Harvey secured one chance from a foul and scored, and the crowd was happy. In the second five minutes of play the visitors had only one shot at the basket and the Reserves had four that were missed. Harvey made two more points from fouls, missing none, and made several of his regular wrestling shots, scoring twice from positions that seemed impossible. He was the only scoring success on the floor up to this time. In the third five minutes the visitors missed on a shot from the field and two from fouls; Harvey scored twice from fouls, once from the field, and Shea broke the scoring record by making two pretty ones from deep back, coming up and getting the ball out of a jungle. In the last five minutes the visitors missed five shots and made one, Roche, who had seemed to be "hoodoo" in this period by getting one to stay in and the crowd seemed glad. Harvey made another of the shots that make everyone get up and cheer and the half ended after a fine exhibition by both sides.

In the second half the playing was much fiercer than in the first, many fouls being called on the Reserves than in the first, and a great many more could have been called on the visitors. Doyle made one basket after missing a foul try. In the second five minutes of the half the Reserves walked away from the visitors. Roche, Harvey and McMahon scoring on three successive shots without giving the visitors a chance at the ball. Then the strangers became excited and played so vigorously that when the time was called, after one resting spell, they were completely out of breath.

The line-up was as follows:

Reserves.	Newport, N. H.
Harvey, l. f.	l. f., Barraclough
Roche, r. f.	r. f., Doyle
McMahon, c.	c., McGuigan
Shea, l. b.	l. b., Glon
Dunn, r. b.	r. b., Bull

Score—Reserves 31; Newport 15. Baskets—Harvey 5, Roche 2, McMahon 2, Shea 4; Doyle 2, McGuigan 1, Glon 2, Bull 1. From Fouls—Harvey 5; Doyle 3. Missed foul tries—Harvey 4; Doyle 3. Missed field tries—Reserves 29; Newport 26. Referee—Waters.

The first match to be played in the inter-class basket ball tournament at the Rogers High School gymnasium was played Friday afternoon as soon after school as possible, and was watched by a large number of the boys and girls of the school. The contending forces were the Juniors and the Junior Middles, and the former were victorious in both halves, 12 to 4, in the first half, and 6 to 3 in the second, the final score being 18 to 7. The playing was better than could have been expected and showed that the boys had given much time to practice. They were particularly good on passing and had some clever moves, although, as was to be expected, they were weak on catching passes, especially long ones, and on picking up the ball from the floor where it often rolled. In this respect the Juniors were far superior to the older boys; in fact, they were superior in all round play, though the defensive work of the others was good.

The activity of the two little forwards of the Juniors was especially noticeable and did much to give their team the victory, and they were well supported by the other players at times. Stevens came out handicapped with a weak knee to help his class team and did well. On the whole the boys should feel proud of their first game. Of course they have yet much to learn, but they have learned a great deal and they showed in the play that they are all willing and anxious to do the utmost for the success of their classes, at the same time doing only what is right. The fouls called were for minor offences and were in the nature of training to correct tendencies rather than for anything serious done. The winners had the most fouls called on them because they did the most work. The line up was as follows:

Juniors (18)	(7) Senior Middles.
Mathews, r. f.	r. f., Stevens
Walsh, l. f.	l. f., Stratford
Ebbs, Olivia, c.	c., Kerr
Sullivan,
Ramsay, r. b.	r. b. Harrington
Barker, l. b.	l. b., Jackson, Armstrong

Baskets—Mathews 2, Walsh 1, Ebbs 1, Olivia 1, Barker 2, Ramsay 1, Stevens 1, Kerr 1, Harrington 1. From foul—Stratford 1. Missed foul tries—Juniors 4; Senior Middles 9. Referee—Pitman. Fifteen minute halves.

Next week the Crescents of Paterson, N. J., will play at the armory and another fast game may be looked for. This is the team which is matched to play Gloversville for the championship and $1,000 a side.

MARY SHAW'S METHODS.

Barrie, author of "Peter Pan" and "The Little Minister," belongs to a class of women who elevate the stage not by tact but by hard work, and who keep their private life entirely distinct from their professional careers. Her methods are the result of careful thought and varied theatrical experience. Her work is conscientious, thorough and satisfactory, and by continuing along these lines she has become one of the leading actresses of America. Miss Shaw is supported by a cast including Frederic Sydney, Ernest Truax, Virginia Kline and Kate Guyon.

ENDORSES INCOME TAX.

French Ex-Minister of Finance Believes It Will be Modified.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—M. Cochery, ex-minister of finance, in an interview today warmly endorses Finance Minister Caillaux's income tax project. He believes it probably will be modified, but says it forms an excellent basis for a direct system of taxation. M. Cochery considers that the taxation rentes is justified, and expresses the opinion that the Bourse campaign against the measure is inspired by those working to secure the exemption of foreign government securities—namely, Russians.

DUCK SHOOTING IN THE BAY.

The bay is covered with ice; everywhere one looks there is ice. Where the steamers have made a channel it is broken up, and where steamers have not been it is smooth as a mill pond. The bay also seems to be full of ducks. All along the coast, in small coves and wherever there is a chance to obtain feed, they may be seen. A number have come down to open water off here to feed, and there is an abundance of birds outside. This makes gunning good, if only a boat can move about. Captain Tom Shea had a party up the bay several days, but yesterday the ice was so strong that he had to go outside, where the gunning was also good. The cold weather will make the duck shooting good about the bay and outside for some time apparently, as the fowl are so numerous.

GEM

Incandescent Lamp Units

Are the most economical for store and shop lighting. They will give twice the useful light of an ordinary incandescent lamp with the same consumption of current. This is due to the design of the Holophane Pagoda shades which are designated to be used with this Special Lamp, and to the lamp itself, the lamp consuming but 2.5 watts per candle power.

We will be pleased to furnish GEM UNITS on trial to all customers.

The complete unit is inexpensive in cost and operation.

VANDERBILT CAR IN A WRECK.

Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt's private car Wayfarer was attached to the Adirondacks Express on the New York Central railroad which was wrecked near Ossining, N. Y., last evening. The train collided with a freight, and its engine, express and baggage cars were piled up in a heap across the tracks. The Vanderbilt car was in the rear of the train and was not damaged. The passengers, among whom were Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mr. Worthington Whitehouse, were somewhat shaken up. Mrs. Vanderbilt was on her way to Sagamore Camp at Racquet Lake in the Adirondacks.
